

High-Performing Teams: Building The Foundation

The velocity in today's technologically-driven marketplace creates so much uncertainty that many teams are often not equipped to solve the complex, changing problems they face. To combat this disruption, high-performing teams are driven by a common Purpose, and they continuously work together to create an environment of Clarity and Psychological Safety. This foundation can help teams better align and collaborate more effectively in agile environments.

Our new, solution-first High-Performing Teams: Building The Foundation workshop provides a complete framework with tools to drive awareness, action, and enhance how your teams work together. The three pillars of this workshop include:

Purpose:

Why the team exists, how they help the organization, and how stakeholders and customers benefit

Clarity:

Alignment between people and tasks to achieve team goals

Psychological Safety:

An environment where team members can take interpersonal risks that improve learnings and increase collaboration
